

No Pigs Allowed

Basilio Gimo

Little Zebra Books, Laura Libertore

letsreadasia.org

Years ago, a group of horned animals decided to have a big party high up in the mountains. They only invited other animals with horns. No one else.

When the pig heard about the party, he thought, "I don't have horns. What am I going to do?"

The next day, he had an idea. He stuck some horns to his head with wax!

It worked and the pig felt very clever when he was allowed into the party. The problem was that the party was taking place close to the sun.

When the party started heating up, the wax began to melt. Pig's horns fell off. The horned animals were shocked. "Who's that one with no horns? Why did he come here?" they asked.

The king of the animals commanded, "Grab that pig and throw him down to earth." They grabbed the pig and threw him down to earth.

Poor pig! When he fell, he landed on his nose.
And his nose was flattened into a snout.

Ever since then, the pig has had a flat snout for a nose.

Brought to you by

The Asia Foundation

Let's Read! is an initiative of The Asia Foundation's Books for Asia program that fosters young readers in Asia. booksforasia.org

To read more books like this and get further information about this book, visit letsreadasia.org

Original Story

No Pigs Allowed, written by Basilio Gimo. Illustrations by Little Zebra Books, Laura Libertore. Published by African Storybook Project, <http://www.africanstorybook.org/> © African Storybook Project. Released under CC BY 3.0.

This work is a modified version of the original story. © The Asia Foundation, 2017. Some rights reserved. Released under CC BY 3.0.

For full terms of use and attribution,
<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/3.0/>